Creating Traditions

2002

After seeing the above photo in a 2002 yearbook this group of students decided to "continue the Back Catalogue". The photo was originally molded after a Pink Floyd poster. The paintings are based on Pink Floyd albums. A layer of latex body paint was applied to each back before painting the albums with acrylics. The Process lasted from 7pm to the wee hours of the morning.

Who?

We are the American Sign Language (ASL) Club established at Goshen College in 2003.

What?

Our goal is to create opportunities for people to gather and use ASL as well as to deepen understanding and raise awareness of Deaf Culture in our college and the broader community. We believe that events involving this little known subculture and its language are valuable resources to enhance the already rich culture of Goshen.

How?

Many different ways! We do everything from plan on campus events to providing carpool rides to financially assisting students attending workshops or taking their required performance tests to sponsoring ASL coffeehouses in the community.

"Ok, here is the plan. We win the next point, and then the next one, and then the next one. Best strategy ever!" – Lauren Derstine

UFC Ultimate Frisbee Club

This is the first year that Goshen had an Ultimate Frisbee Club. The club is a coed group of Goshen students who love to play Frisbee. The goal is to teach people how to play Ultimate, play against other college teams, and have a ton of fun in the process. We held weekly practices and played almost every day at 4pm. This year the club was involved in two tournaments in Illinois: Glory Days and Chicago Invite, and we did pretty well in both of them, despite the wind and heavy rain. Next year we hope to raise enough money to be able to go to Sectionals, which is the Ultimate Frisbee equivalent of a playoff system where we would compete against other colleges in our region for a chance to go to Nationals.

"This year is the year that Ultimate Frisbee club finally solidified into something real. I'm really stoked at the potential we have, and I look forward to playing in tournaments next year." – Micah Kulp

"I thank God for MTW because he has made a way for me to share God's love with young adults here at GC and soon to be, in high schools." – Yolo Lopez-Perez

Made To Worship

Made To Worship is a ministry group in which college students can use their talents for intentional outreach to the community and to local high schools. Made To Worship lifts the name of Jesus Christ in every song, dance, and/or act to minister to teens.

Midweek Faith

We want to to grow together and learn what it means to love God and love other people. We will accomplish this by offering support, fellowship, and accountability to each other while we seek God through Scripture, conversation, discussion, video resources, guest speakers, service opportunities, and different activities in an effort to become disciples, as Christ has called us to do.

- Writing letters to kids on the Apache Indian Reservation in Arizona
- Volunteering with ADEC
- Writing letters and singing Christmas carols to the elderly at Greencroft
- Helping organize and run a local worship concert at Grace Community Church

"Midnight Worship has allowed me to experience the Holy Spirit in life changing ways! Attending it and helping plan it has strengthened my faith, trust, and dependence in God. Midnight worship has also brought me closer to God and others. I look forward to serving Christ through Midnight Worship and other ways next year." – Jessica Camacho

TD The Dreamers

Newly formed this year, The Dreamers worked on understanding and advocating for current national legislation on immigration reform. A main focus was The DREAM Act and the American Dream Act which focus on providing temporary conditional residency status to undocumented students who came into the US before the age of 16 so that they can apply for college and scholarships, and work their way to residency.

"It has been inspiring and engaging for me to work with a solid group of people under an organizing framework that helps us get things done, help one another, get excited current issues, or just spend an entire meeting playing hackie-sack outside. I'll miss these people." -Alana Kenagy

1. Cameras and notebooks in hand, many journalists from local and national newspapers, stations, and magazines crowded the fan section.

2. Painted in red white and blue, some students came to the game expressing their support for Goshen College's decision.

3. Heads bowed down, the baseball players said a prayer in anticipation for the game and being the first team to hear the national anthem before a sporting event.

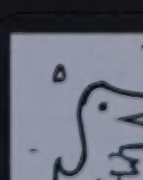

4. While listening to the instrumental version of the national anthem, many students chose to stay seated in order to express their allegiance to God and express their disapproval of the decision.

5. Huddled around with ears and hearts open, baseball players listened to Goshen College president, Jim Brenneman as he spoke to them with encouragement and praise before the big game.

fun (fun) n. 1 a) lively, joyous play or playfulness; amusement, sport, recreation, etc. b) enjoyment or pleasure 2 a source or cause of amusement or merriment, as an amusing person or thing

—Webster's New World College Dictionary

Dear Seniors,

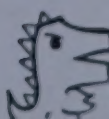

Fun. It has indeed been fun! You are Goshen College's beloved seniors, and we will miss you and all of the fun times and good memories that you brought to us during your time here. But just as you had to balance hard work and dedication in with all of the fun, you are now facing a time in your life where a lot of decisions have to be made, and responsibility is required.

I would like to challenge you though, if you will allow an underclassman to do such a thing. I challenge you to not forget what the word fun means amongst all of those decisions and responsibilities that will continue to follow you throughout life. Keep your dreams alive; dreams of traveling, sky-diving, learning how to hula hoop, swimming in a pool of noodles, opening a hobby shop, learning Swahili, etc.. Whatever it is that you would consider fun, don't forget to make it part of your journey along with everything else! Just in case you ever forget what fun is, though, I have included a reminder above. =)

Congratulations on all of your achievements! May God (and fun) always be with you!

Your yearbook editor,
Anita Opel

THE FUTURE

Presented at GC's Senior Show, 4-24-10

by Arienne Johnson

For you, might seem daunting because of its unpredictability.

The options are pretty vast in most cases, after all, and pressure might acutely press into the chest, causing more and more stress to seep into those corners of the mind until you're blind with stigmatic uncertainties.

Certainly!

It's true! It could! If you are prone to easily wind into a tight wad of wobbly, jittering itches, then beware! The Future can become a nightmare!
Of blackness, and, unanswerable void....

But perhaps instead you are one of those who fell into this present with a large dose of convenience.

For you, the Future is not black but clear-

It sits, waiting for your arrival while you are perched nonchalantly on something sort of resembling a conveyor belt that drags you along-and it's not so much for you about choosing which path as much as it's due to stepping over those stumbling stones that roll up on their own accord.

(A basic task on most days, it's true-) except when,

every so often,

the rocks on the road blunder up your course.

Tripping up utopian boredom by obnoxious obligations.

So. Take care, if you please, that you do not expect life to always be a lazy stroll that seeps away easily, simply since you don't seek out more stuff to juggle than is enforced by these policing institutions of society...

If that is your chosen route, sometimes it will take even you a small search for a side path to avoid some of life's chaos which wishes to pass by your trail-
But yes, I digress

Or maybe you are less like this than like someone who isn't impressed with the wait.
For you, the future's got more potential—I can see.
Not one to sit around and delay for whatever might choose to spring up in your way—instead, you'll start walking along the slow-moving sidewalk-present, and while your attempts to move ahead prove impossible—you preoccupy your determinations, into a state of constant preparations.
Holding delegations.
Boxing conversations into neatly spaced compartments.
Your world is one that orders the novelty of moments
into logical strings of things versus events, prognosticated to commence in perfect precision so that even collisions are prioritized and organized.
Because wherever possible road blocks are predicted to pop up you've sectioned off space with bright yellow tape and large painted signs saying "proceed with caution" or "watch your head," whether avalanches or adventures —you wouldn't want to end up dead—so instead the unknown really needs to be avoided!

And your moving sidewalk present is stacked safely and quaintly so that then, when you look back, over your shoulder,
a masterpiece is revealed:
your cohesive construction, out of that which was random.
Such a lovely legacy!
To be savored,
succinctly.
And while others are free to gaze at the remains of your path,
you are constricted
merely to the glance back.
Since, the farther you go the more bound to your pattern you're prone.
Consistency is the key,
and you do your job
tidily.

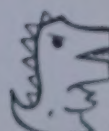

But no, that may not be it!
 You view the Future as a curious ride!
 You are the one who'll consciously decide to explore the horizontal of the path of this present.
 Picking up each rock to examine and acknowledge and then putting it back in its proper place-sometimes creating interesting stacks or clumping together blocks according to color schemes that are pretty-your Future is a discovery of treasures to examine, and then to abandon,
 -acknowledging each piece of the puzzle with satisfied curiosity. But your frustrations will come when the stuff arrives too cluttered to suffer your meticulous scrutiny. And you must compromise and overlook sections of life-
 -a sad reality. I understand!
 A travesty, truly!
 But focused curiosity is honestly impossible to maintain!
 May your quest after inquiries remain-
 But don't be vain when you must face release-Lest you become buried beneath the rubble!
 Surely this would be trouble!
 Indeed, as disappointing as it seems to pass your gaze across something shiny in the distance (-lost endeavors...)
 You're right, it's not fun!
 Yet it simply must be done sometimes...

and then there are those who try to transpose their own goals in their way.
These take on miles on each side, because they've decided that their own visions are prime and they're not willing to suffer anything less than sublime so they'll fill up their time by constructing imaginative inventions that somehow squeeze the Future into desired results.
And-- much to the onlookers' surprise, it often works!
Jumping through hoops and scrambling up stacks-entirely mobile with backpacks and traveller's checks-making on more and more obstacles until they've surpassed all the rest-one might suspect to gain respect from intellectual academics, like this scheming and plotting and setting their sights high-being by their critics who sit contemplating why-stretching, stuffing, and scratching all the way further, dedications commit even more than was bargained for when it began... way back when...
But this Future is also not without its costs-instead of analyzing back at what's past, Focus becomes consumed- locked into zoom... and once you manage to pick up your speed, one day you'll look around and realize: you're in the lead-- you can't even see the people you've left though they're the ones who've helped you the best.
And perhaps, at times, your progress will be paused and you may not even stop to acknowledge the cause as you persist and climb upwards, higher in time one day you will finally come to realize that you never will actually reach the sky but don't despair, it still is ok to try-) Just remember that one day you'll have to look back and acknowledge the one thing you've forgotten, alack!
the path that you've left- it's not quite in tact-- So brace yourself, since eventually you must face where you've been.
And hopefully I won't find myself regretting my wins-a lot of souls plowed down for the sake of my pace-I must remember to leave some time on the side for space since not every inch forward is better than none,
And the Future, it seems, will never be done.

There were many, many people who lended a hand when I needed it this year as I was putting this book together; too many to list every single one of them. Therefore I hope that you will excuse my simply saying, THANK YOU to all who helped me out. You know who you are.

However, there are a few people that went above and beyond their call of duty; so much so that I feel the need to call attention to who they are, and to thank them personally.

Hannah Bartel: Thank you, thank you for doing so much for this year's book and being my right-hand woman. I honestly don't think that this book would have been completed without your help.

Tim Blaum: I would have been lost from the very beginning if it weren't for you. Thanks so much for your expert advice and encouragement when things got a little rough!

Public Relations: I thank you for your cooperation and your willingness to help me out with pictures and indexing. You all made my life much less stressful.

Thanks again to everyone that helped me out in one way or another.

GOSHEN HEALTH SYSTEM
True.Care.

Hope and healing begin here.

Every person, no matter how troubled, is worthy of love and care. For many, hope and healing begin with the programs and services available at Oaklawn.

Oaklawn has served the community since 1962 with the professional skills, innovative programs and empathetic care needed to treat those suffering from mental illness and addictions.
